To Whom It May Concern,

Re: Friends of Presidio Hills Golf

I writing this letter in support of the Friends of Presidio Hill Golf bid to take over the management of the Presidio Hills Golf Course located in Old Town, San Diego.

My husband and I bought our home in 2009 and relish living in an area that draws many vacationers year-round. Rich in history Old Town is home to arguably one of the oldest buildings in the state located right down the street from our house. It now serves as the club house for the Presidio Hills Golf Course.

Normally neither my husband or I are active in the civic causes, however an article in the Union Tribune regarding the small sad golf course down the street and a meeting to discuss options to restore it, peaked our interest. The Presidio Golf course has long been under cared for, and an eyesore right in the middle of tourist attraction San Diego is famous for.

Arriving at the meeting I was struck with the brain power in the room. The team assembled knew their stuff, and showed a commitment to provide the necessary talent, time, money and any resources needed to restore Presidio Hills Golf to its previous splendor. The team demonstrated an openness to suggestions, frequently seeking out the opinions of the neighbors who attended. They also talked of various "out of the box" ideas, showing a willingness to be flexible to get the job done.

While not a golfer myself, the Friends displayed a genuine love of the game and talked of using the venue to promote the sport of golf for children who normally wouldn't have the opportunity.

I have every confidence the Friends of Presidio Hill Golf have the best interest of the community at heart and the commitment to get this done right.

Warm regards,
